the sixty french texts edited here are all direct commentaries by contemporary authors on the french language in the 17th century by this time french had begun to assert its independence in its written and printed form it was being used for a wide variety of literary technical and administrative purposes its practitioners not only successfully challenged the hitherto dominant position of latin but also began for the first time to discuss and analyse for its own sake the language which was now their preferred medium for expression hence in the first half of the seventeenth century a growing number of publications on the nature and characteristics of french the texts demonstrate the sustained critical preoccupation with the welfare of the french language in the 17th century and illustrate the various ways in which the writers of the age contributed to its development as an instrument of literary expression and social intercourse the volume presents new insights into two basic theoretical issues hotly debated in recent work on grammaticalization and language contact grammatical replication and grammatical borrowability the key issues are how can grammatical replication be distinguished from other superficially similar processes of contact induced linguistic change and under what conditions does it take place are there grammatical morphemes or constructions that are more easily borrowed than others and how can language contact account for areal biases in the borrowing vs calquing of grammatical formatives the book is a major contribution to the ongoing theoretical discussion concerning the relationship between grammaticalization and language contact on a broad empirical basis
